Alexandria Gazette.

MONDAY EVENING, SEPT. 12

Etiquette and Dancer.
"Ezra," said the farmer's wife, "I wish you wouldn't lean your elbows on the table."
"Huh," sneered the farmer, "gettin' fastidious, ain't you? Mebbe you'll be warnin' me next to keep my knife outen my mouth an' tellin' me not to cool my tea in my sasser. But my granther kep' his elbows on 'is table, an' so did my father, an', by heck, I'm goin' to lean on it as hard an' as long as I can please, so there!"
Whereupon he leaned hard, so hard that the ancient table suddenly collapsed and sprawled out its legs and went down with a frightful crash of crockery.
"Well, you've gone an' done it now!" screamed the old lady. "That's a pretty mess, ain't it? Ef you'd had th' sense of a chipmunk you'd have knowed th' reason I didn't want you to lean on 'is table wuz 'cause th' legs wuz rickety. An' I guess a little etiquette wouldn't hurt you none anyway, Ezra Doolittle, to say nothin' of savin' $2 wuth of family crockery."
And the disgruntled farmer stumbled out from the scene of wreckage and chased a harmless tramp three miles down the road with an ax handle.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Handicapped.
Englishmen use their hands comparatively little in conversation, but Frenchmen use them a good deal. Quantitatively, Parisians have a very keen sense of the exaggerated way in which the southern Frenchman and the Italian help on what they have to say with their hands, and this accounts for the following story:
An Italian railway thief was caught redhanded in the train, handcuffed and brought to Paris. As he was walking out of the Gare de Lyon between two detectives a friend met him.
"Hello!" he said. "Where have you been this long time, and how are you?"
The prisoner looked at him pathetically and shook his head.
"What's the matter?" said his friend. "Have you been stricken dumb?"
The prisoner raised his handcuffed hands. "Very nearly," he said.—London M. A. P.

Room and Board For Single Gentleman
"So, Belinda, I hear you and 'Doc' have parted company. Couldn't you get along?"
"No'm; least I couldn't. D'y'e know that low nigger just maled me for my money?"
"No?" I said.
"Yes'm. He saw all them things in my palor, silver butter dishes and crayon portraits that you and the other white ladies' g'l me, and he just thought he was goin' to set in there and smoke while I washed and 'fined. And I had a big burial insurance, too, and he knowed that. So I jes' natchally t'ned him out."

"Yes," I said. "But I thought I saw him going in your back gate last week."

"Oh, to be sure! He's round, but he's jes' boad'lin' with me now."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Beginning of the Germ Theory.
Agostino Bassi, a country doctor in the north of Italy, early in the last century was the starter of the germ theory of disease. At that time a peculiar disease was killing the whole silk worms, bringing ruin to the whole country of Italy. Bassi, by the microscope, discovered the germ which is the cause of the disease. The germ later was named Boritis bassiana. Bassi believed and stated that human diseases were also caused by germs. Bassi's work was sneered at and pooh-poohed by his fellow men and physicians, and he failed to make a lasting impression, thereby losing great glory for Italy.—New York Press.

The Orkney Islands.
"The member from the Orkneys" is the only man in the British house of commons who can say he sits for 200 islands. Only sixty of the islands are inhabited, but the constituency embraces more than 60,000 people.

The Orkneys were once given by Norway to England as security for a queen's dowry and never redeemed. In the islands the voters must go to the polls by boat, and in some cases the distance to be traveled is eight miles.

First Aid.
"Now," said the professor, "suppose you had been called to see a patient with hysterics—some one, for instance, who had started laughing and found it impossible to stop—what is the first thing you would do?"
"Amputate his funny bone," promptly replied the new student.—Houston Post.

Did Her Best.
"We're always careful about these contagious diseases," said Mrs. Lapsing. "When Johnny had got well of the measles we bought some sulphur candles and disinfected the house from top to bottom."—Chicago Tribune.

An Advantage.
"So you prefer servants who speak English imperfectly?"
"Yes," replied the housewife. "If I don't understand what they say I am not obliged to dismiss them so frequently."—Exchange.

Suspicion.
Once give your mind to suspicion and there is sure to be food enough for it. In the stillest night the air is filled with sounds for the wakeful ear that is resolved to listen.

The Common Complaint.
Probably this expression is used often by people than any other: "Everything is blamed on me."—Aitchison Globe.

WANTS PUPILS' TEETH EXAMINED BY DENTISTS.

In a letter to Doctor Brumbaugh, superintendent of schools, Dr. P. B. McCullough, chairman of the Philadelphia committee of dentists appointed by Doctor Neff, of the department of health and charities, to arrange the details of a dental clinic, recommends that the plans first suggested with regard to the treatment of children's teeth be carried out.

According to the present plan, the teeth of school children are to be examined by medical inspectors of the bureau of health, and then, if necessary, they are to be treated in the free dental clinic that is being established by the department of health and charities. Doctor McCullough asks that the examinations be conducted by graduates of the dental dispensary, and upon their recommendation have the children treated in cases where the parents are too poor to pay for such services.

The consent of Doctor Brumbaugh to the change is asked, and also the consent of the elementary committee of the board of education. This committee will consider the subject at a meeting to be held Monday afternoon.

In buying a cough medicine, don't be afraid to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it, and relief is sure to follow. Especially recommended for coughs, colds and whooping cough. Sold by W. F. Creighton and Richard Gibson.

A band of youthful highwaymen who, according to the police, do not stop at holding up whoever is in sight, but in moments when money is scarce enter churches and rifle poor boxes, was captured yesterday after the Washington police had wrung an alleged confession from one of the band, incriminating the others and furnishing information which made their capture possible. The police have under arrest Harry M. Brooks, John H. Cunningham and Emile Daust, all from Richmond, Brooks, according to the police, says he is 22 years old, Cunningham 18, and Daust 18.

THE PHILADELPHIA RECORD.
There are three essential elements, according to The Philadelphia Record, that make for success in a modern newspaper:

First it must print all the news with an eye to the interests of all types of readers, in attractive and entertaining form. Second, whatever political cause it may editorially espouse, it must be fair, free of outside dictation, and sincere in advocating the policies it believes to be best for the general welfare. Third, it must be clean, wholesome and elevating in its influence.

The Record itself possesses all these elements of success, and none only to a dependent democratic in politics. It is as nearly nonpartisan as a newspaper can be in its news columns, which fully and accurately cover the entire field tributary to Philadelphia. Aside from its news departments, including its daily market reports, which are the recognized authority in produce transactions, it is pre-eminent in several other features that have contributed immensely to its popularity as a family newspaper. The last word on household affairs, science, fashion and farm progress is found in its regular departments. Its famous "Reporters' Notebook" column is widely quoted throughout the field of sports. It is practically the only daily paper in the east for horse news. And its cartoonist, who follows the principal events of the day in inimitable style, is second to none in the United States.

The Philadelphia Record has another element of news value that is of particular interest to the women of the family. The store news is generally of secondary importance in the eyes of the general public, but the Record, and the Record, is worth noting, prints more department store advertising than any other newspaper in Philadelphia.
